He came in, says the Chicago Tribune, shaking with suppressed lauguter, which fairly oczed out of his eyes and the corners of his mouth. Drawing a chair beside that occupied by the editor, he coughed affably in his face, and drawing some manuscript from his pocket, said: "I've been getting something good for you—something bully, and yet it's so shaple that it is a wonder nobody else has thought of it. It'll be a clean scoop on every paper in America. (Here the editor took up a heavy ligoum vite ruler that was lying on the deek before him, and rubbed his nose with it reflectively.)

"You know they've elected Michael C. Kerr, Speaker?" The editor answered that he did. "Well," said his visitor speaking very rapidly," here is a lot of jokes about his name—'Mr. Speaker?" and—?" The heavy ruler descended on his head with a fearful crash. And the visitor tumbled upon the floor. The editor felt his pulse, and leaned his ear against his heart, then, with a smile of satisfaction, litted his pockets and rang the bell. When the porter appeared, he the bell. When the porter appeared, he said, calmiy: "Jim, put him in a barrel, and take him to Rush Medical College, with the Tribune's compliments. You can keep his clothes for yourself." Then ne resumed his work—an editorial on the brutalities of body snatching.

Small-pox--- The Cost of a Great Epidemic.

The following abstract of a paper by Dr. Benjamin Lee, of Philadelphia, before the recent meeting of the American Public Health Association, is particularly commended to the Authorities of Brocklyn and Cincinnati at the present

The object of the paper is to furnish an

Recoklya and Cincinnati at the present time:

The object of the paper is to fueniah an approximate determination of the loss sustained by the city of Philadelphia in dollars and cents in consequence of the presence of small-pox in the winter of 1871-72, and placing side by side with this the degree in which this loss might have been prevented by judicious legislation, rigidly and learlessly enforced, to attempt to convey to the public mind a conviction of the immense economy, in a pseumiary point of view, of a generous outlay for the prevention of disease and a healthy co-operation in all measures designed to promote this object.

The Board of Health estimates the number of cases at 25,000: average duration of convalescent cases 36 days; total number of days of hospital care 33,400, at an expense of 315,000 for food and medicine, or 45 cents per day.

The degree to which small-pox might have been prevented by the rough vaccination with lively virus at an early remove from the cow, at 75 per cent. for cases, and 90 per cent. for deaths, by eafford re-vaccination at 10 per cent. additional for deaths, and by thorough disinfection of effects and premises at 5 per cent. additional for deaths, and by thorough disinfection of effects and premises at 5 per cent. additional for cases, and 2% per cent. additional for deaths, on this basis our expenses and losses would have been as follows:

337 cases in hospital, of which 20 were latal, 240 days; 217 recorded, 3,492 days; at 50 cents per diem, $1,500; 10,000 cases in city, of which 93 were latal, 1,116 days; 1,513 recoveries, 35,000 days; at 50 cents per diem, $1,500; 10,000 cases in city, of which 93 were latal, 1,116 days; 1,513 recoveries, 35,000 days; at 50 cents per diem, $1,500; 10,000 cases in city, of which 93 were latal, 1,116 days; 1,513 recoveries, 35,000 days; at 50 cents per diem, $1,500; 10,000 cases in city, of which 93 were latal, 2,100 cons by deaths, $125,335; loss by funerals, $1,500.

The total loss of the guidemic was inches in the channel at the design.

Centileting Estimates of Character Put in Evidence on Beth Sides.

[New York Sun of Yesterday.]

In the third day of the trial of Henry C. Bowen's libel suit against the Brooktyn Engle, Mr. Beach opened with an argument for the admission of a series of articles from the Brooklyn Union, under Bowen's ownership, condemning Kinselia of the Engle, to show the provocation for the Engle's retort. Judge Reynolds refused to admit the articles.

Andrew McLean, the Engle's managing editor, testified that when the alleged libel was published he was aware that an article containing substantially the same facts had been printed in the Spirit of the Times. To Mr. Fullerton he said that throughout the Beecher had the Engle was friendly to Mr. Beecher, and advocated the theory that Mr. Bowen was the author of the scandal. Richard Areson testified that he had heard of his (Mr. Bowen's) Tepukation as but, but had no accompliance with him. (Mr. Bowen's) reputation as bad, but had no acquantance with him.

"What side did you take in the Beecher controversy?" asked Mr. Fullerion.

"I believed Mr. Beecher to be guilty, and I believe so still," replied the wit-and I believe so still," replied the witness.

Alex. Studwell, a Spruce-street leather dealer, swore that Mr. Bowen's reputation was not good for twenty years before 1874. Is a member of Plymouth Church. Jacob B. Murray, Plymouth's handsomest member, also testified that Mr. Bowen's reputation was bid.

"Have you any other occupation on Sunday?" asked Mr. Fullerton.

Mr. Murray asked the Judge if that was a proper question, and Mr. Beach objected in his behalf.

Afr. Fullerton pressed the question, and Mr. Murray impatiently said: "Yes, sir. I am usher in Plymouth Churcham there twice on Sunday, and have been for fifteen years."

"In what capacity did you attend the scandal trial?"

scandal trial?

"In what capacity did you attend the scandal trial?"

"Usher."

Mr. Murray added that he had no doubt about Mr. Beecher's innocence, and was inclined to believe that Mr. Bowen was at the bottom of the scandal. Mr. Bowen attended Plymouth Church up to the 1st of last May.

"I object to prejudicing my client in thut way," said Mr. Fullerton; "What kind of groceries do you deal in?"

"All kinds—cheese, sugar, coffee, cigars and tobacco,"

Mr. Murray left the stand, and had reached the jury box when Mr. Beach said: "You didn't mention liquors."

"Oh!" said Mr. Murray, "that is included in my business."

Bev. Edward Eggleston testified that he was once superintending editor of the Independent, and quit in consequence of a disagreement with Mr. Bowen. He thought that Mr. Bowen's reputation for probity and integrity was bad. Louis Palmer, an usher in Plymouth Church, expressed the same opinion on the stand. The detendant's counsel could not find their other witnesses as to character in Court, and Mr. Fullerton suggested that they might call more Plymouth ushers. William A. Corriettied that he told the Eagle reporter who was searching for information contestified that he told the Eagle reporter who was searching for information con-cerning Bowen's relations to the Kidd Salvage Company, that the facts had been published in the Spirit of the Times and The Sun. Abner C. Keeney, Kingsiey's partner, was called to testify to the ownership of the Eagle, but the Judge re used to allow the testimony, E. W. Hurl, a New York dry goods mer-chant, had for fifteen years known Mr. Bowen's reputation to be bad. The de-

Bowen's reputation to be bad. The defense then rested.

Seth B. Hunt, a New York business man, testified for the plaintiff that he first knew Mr. Bowen in Arthur Tappan's store, where both were clerks lorty-five years ago. He considered Bowen's reputation good. Benjamin H. Hutten, a dry-goods importer, thought his reputation was good. Mr. Beach questioned the witness about the alleged use of the Independent for a number use of the Independent for a number of radiroad companies. He had heard nothing of that, nor that Mr. Bowen emplayed an agent to buy his notes at a discount, having previously advised the holders to sell. Mayor Hunter also thought that Mr. Bowen's reputation was good, and so did Aaron L. Reed, James Howe, Daniel C. Robbins, Peter James Howe, Daniel C. Robbins, Feter L. Hoe, and A. S. Barnes, Mr. Thomas W. Field, Superintendent of Public Instruction in Brooklyn, sub-pensed to produce Mr. Kinselia's love letters to Mrs. Field, was called, but Mr. Beach objected and Judge Reynolds anstated the point. sustained the point.

Mr. Hampden — some village Hampden, with dauntless breast, we take it—of England, offered recently to deposit five hundred pounds sterling, on reciprocal terms, defying the world, the flesh, or any other man, to prove the roundity. or any other man, to prove the rotundity of the earth, by Scripture, reason or science, and engaging to forfeit the de-posit on the exhibition to an intelligent referee of a conyex canal or lake. A Mr. Wallace accepted the bet, made his deposit, and very soon demonstrated to the entire satisfaction of the referee that the earth is just about as round as it can be under the circumstances. The money was accordingly paid over to him as per contract, but now the yillage Hampden squeels, and has sued the umpire for the money, thus demonstrating the fact that neither the earth nor his nead is level.
